

Resources

For more information on Live Poultry Cars, please read:

Home to Roost: The Story of Live Poultry Transit by Rail

Author(s): John H. White, Jr.

Source: Agricultural History, Vol. 63, No. 3 (Summer, 1989), pp. 81-94

Published by: Agricultural History Society

<http://www.jstor.org/stable/3743735>

Online:

Turkeys & Trains - The Story of the Poultry Car Industry

Hoosier Valley Railroad Museum

<http://www.hoosiervalley.org/history/turkeys-and-trains/>

The last known live poultry car, Poultry Transit Company #423, is housed at the National Museum of Transportation in St. Louis, MO. However, the car currently is not on exhibit and is not in good condition. A huge thank you goes out to the volunteers who were willing to take pictures and measurements for this project.

National Museum of Transportation

2933 Barrett Station Rd.

St. Louis, MO 63122

314 965 6212

museum@transportmuseumassociation.org

For blueprint drawings of live poultry cars:

Car Blueprints:

The Railway Car Journal, January 1893, P. 66 (L.P.T.C. 500 Series)

The Car Builders Dictionary, 1913, Figure 369 (L.P.T.C. 700 Series)

Railway Age, November 9, 1906 P. 589 (Bundy Car)

Modeling Blueprints:

Live Poultry Transportation Company (L.P.T.C. 507) Model Railroader, July 1961, Page 26

National Poultry Car (N.H.X. 6000) Model Railroader, October 1947, Page 804

Google Patents has electronic versions of all the patents mentioned in this presentation available as PDF download. <https://patents.google.com/>. You can search by patent number or key word.